

Fort Bend County Voters Guide

A Message from Texas Senator Glenn Hegar

Thank you for allowing me to be your conservative voice in the Texas Senate. Every day, I am reminded that we are truly blessed to call Texas our home, a great place to live, work and raise our families. Likewise, we are fortunate to live in the United States of America, the land of freedom and opportunities. Over the past couple of years, however, every day I am reminded that our freedoms, liberties, and family values are under attack. Again and again, Texas finds itself under assault from the Obama administration. The federal government's efforts to control our individual freedoms, health care, Now, however, in 2012 we have a second alternative and that is the ballot box. Our primary elections have been delayed in Texas by over two months and we are still denied the implementation of a common sense Texas' Voter Identification Law, because of this administration. Now is the time for Texas Republicans to unite and take back our government. I ask that you join me in turning out to vote on May 29th, so that we can send a loud and clear message that we want a "change" on November 6, 2012. The change that I speak of is in defense of our individual liberties, protect the sovereignty of our state, and preserve the values that our founding fathers envisioned for our great nation.

This is the year for conservatives to make a change and it will be one for the protection of innocent lives, our 2nd amendment rights, less government spending, a common sense climate for small businesses to grow property rights, voting rights, and business industries are unprecedented. Unfortunately, Texas' only recourse, over the past few years, against the federal government's over reaching policies into our daily lives is to push back in the numerous court battles that are being waged by our Attorney General, Greg Abbott.

The purpose of this Voters Guide is to help inform Fort Bend County Voters about the candidates in this year's Republican Primary Election.

job creation, and most importantly, a place to raise our children. Please join me in honoring the men and women that have made the ultimate sacrifice of defending our individual freedoms and national security by voting on May 29th.
