HOW DO THESE THREE WOMEN FEEL ABOUT EACH OTHER?

["Tante" means "aunt" in French.]

According to Tante Atie, each finger had a purpose. It was the way she had been taught to prepare herself to become a woman. Mothering, Boiling, (5) Loving, Baking, Nursing, Frying, Healing, Washing, Ironing, Scrubbing. It wasn't her fault, she said. Her ten fingers had been named for her even before she was born. Sometimes, she even wished (10) she had six fingers on each hand so she could have two left for herself.

I rushed back and forth between the iron pots in the yard. The air (15) smelled like spices that I had not cooked with since I'd left my mother's home years before.

I usually ate random concoctions: frozen dinners, samples from global (20) cookbooks, food that was easy to put together and brought me no pain. No

By the time we ate, the air was (25) pregnant with rain. Thunder groaned in the starless sky while the lanterns flickered in the hills.

"Well done," Tante Atie said after her fourth serving of my rice and beans.

My grandmother chewed slowly as (30) she gave my daughter her bottle.

"If the wood is well carved," said my grandmother, "it teaches us about the carpenter. Atie, you taught Sophie (35) well."

Tante Atie was taken off guard by my grandmother's compliment. She kissed me on the forehead before taking the dishes to the yard to wash. Then (40) she went into the house, took her notebook, and left for her lesson with Louise.
