Understanding Goebel Hummel Figurines

Goebel Hummel figurines are produced by the Goebel Company in Germany and are known for their high-quality craftsmanship and intricate detailing. Since their introduction in the 1930s, these figurines have become highly sought after by collectors around the world.

History of Goebel Hummel

1. Origins: The origins of Hummel figurines can be traced back to Sister Maria Innocentia Hummel, a Bavarian nun and artist whose illustrations of children inspired the first figurines.
2. Production: Goebel began producing these figurines in 1934, and they quickly gained popularity, especially in the United States.

3. Evolution: Over the decades, the designs have evolved, with various artists contributing to the line, but the core themes of innocence and childhood remain.
