

Helping And Linking Verb Worksheets

Name: _____

Linking vs Action Verbs

Verb is a word which expresses action or being.

A linking verb joins the subject and predicate of a sentence. A linking verb shows a state of being.

Examples: am, is, are, was, were, be, been

An action verb tells the action of a sentence.

Examples: run, hop, skip, sleep, jump, talk, snore

Directions: Read each sentence and determine if the underlined verb is a linking verb or an action verb.

1. The strong winds blew down the old tree. _____
2. Aaron is an avid reader. _____
3. Jessica's friends were very polite. _____
4. The boxes are in the back of my truck. _____
5. The movie ended very late. _____
6. There will be snow on the ground tomorrow. _____
7. Lisa paints pictures of animals. _____
8. Robert ate the crust of the pizza first. _____
9. I am one of the tallest kids in school. _____
10. Betty is afraid of the dark. _____

Super Teacher Worksheets - <http://www.superteacherworksheets.com>

Helping and linking verb worksheets are essential educational tools designed to assist students in understanding the functions of these specific types of verbs. In English grammar, helping verbs (also known as auxiliary verbs) and linking verbs play crucial roles in sentence structure, meaning, and clarity. This article will explore the definitions, functions, and examples of helping and linking verbs, as well as provide insights into effective worksheets and activities that can enhance students' learning experiences.

Understanding Helping Verbs

Helping verbs are verbs that assist the main verb in a sentence, providing additional meaning related to tense, mood, or voice. They are not able to stand alone and must accompany a main verb to form a complete thought.

Types of Helping Verbs

Helping verbs can be categorized into three primary types:

1. Auxiliary Verbs: These are the most common helping verbs and include:
 - Be (am, is, are, was, were)
 - Have (have, has, had)
 - Do (do, does, did)
2. Modal Verbs: These verbs express necessity, possibility, permission, or ability and include:
 - Can, could
 - May, might
 - Must
 - Shall, should
 - Will, would
3. Phrasal Modals: These are combinations of auxiliary verbs and other words that convey a specific meaning, such as:
 - Have to
 - Should have
 - Ought to

Functions of Helping Verbs

Helping verbs serve several vital functions in English sentences:

- Forming Tenses: Helping verbs are crucial for constructing different tenses. For example:
 - Present perfect: "She has finished her assignment."
 - Future tense: "They will attend the concert."
- Creating Questions: Helping verbs help in forming interrogative sentences:
 - "Do you like ice cream?"
 - "Is she coming to the party?"
- Forming Negatives: They play a key role in negating sentences:
 - "He does not want to go."
 - "They are not ready yet."

Understanding Linking Verbs

Linking verbs connect the subject of a sentence to additional information about the subject. Unlike action verbs, linking verbs do not show action but rather link the subject to a subject complement that describes or identifies it.

Common Linking Verbs

The most frequently used linking verb is the verb "to be," which includes forms such as:

- Am, is, are, was, were, be, being, been

Other verbs that can function as linking verbs include:

- Become
- Seem
- Appear
- Feel
- Look
- Smell
- Taste
- Sound

Functions of Linking Verbs

Linking verbs serve to:

- Connect the Subject with its Complement: They link the subject to adjectives or nouns that provide additional information:
 - "The cake smells delicious." (Here, "smells" links the subject "cake" to the adjective "delicious.")
 - "She is a talented musician." (Here, "is" links "she" to "talented musician.")
- Establish State of Being: Linking verbs indicate a state of existence rather than an action:
 - "He is happy."
 - "They were tired."

Creating Effective Helping and Linking Verb Worksheets

Worksheets focusing on helping and linking verbs can significantly enhance students' understanding and utilization of these verbs. A well-structured worksheet should incorporate various activities that challenge students to identify, use, and apply their knowledge of these verbs in different contexts.

Components of a Worksheet

An effective helping and linking verb worksheet may include the following components:

1. Definitions and Examples: Start with a brief explanation of helping and linking verbs, along with clear examples.
2. Identification Exercises: Provide sentences where students must identify and underline or highlight the helping and linking verbs. For example:
 - "She is running fast."
 - "They have been studying for hours."
3. Fill-in-the-Blank Activities: Create sentences with missing verbs for students to fill in with the appropriate helping or linking verbs. For example:
 - "He _____ (to be) a great artist."
 - "They _____ (to have) finished their homework."
4. Sentence Construction: Encourage students to write their own sentences using specific helping or linking verbs. For example:
 - Use at least three different forms of "to be" in sentences.
 - Write sentences using modal verbs to express ability or permission.
5. Multiple Choice Questions: Include questions where students select the correct helping or linking verb from a list. For example:
 - "She _____ (is/was) always on time."
 - "They _____ (can/must) go to the concert."
6. Matching Exercises: Create a matching section where students match verbs to their functions or examples. For instance:
 - Match the linking verb to its subject complement.

Engaging Activities Beyond Worksheets

In addition to worksheets, educators can implement various interactive activities to reinforce learning about helping and linking verbs:

- Group Discussions: Facilitate discussions where students share sentences using helping and linking verbs, explaining their choices.
- Verb Charades: Organize a game where students act out sentences with helping and linking verbs, while others guess the verbs being used.
- Peer Teaching: Pair students to teach each other about helping and linking verbs through mini-presentations or creative projects.

Conclusion

Helping and linking verb worksheets are invaluable resources for educators and students alike, fostering a deeper understanding of how these verbs function within sentences. By incorporating a variety of exercises and activities, teachers can engage students in meaningful ways, helping them master the use of helping and linking verbs. As students enhance their grammatical skills, they will become more confident writers and communicators, laying a strong foundation for their future language use.

Frequently Asked Questions

What are helping verbs?

Helping verbs, also known as auxiliary verbs, are verbs that accompany main verbs to form a verb phrase and add functional or grammatical meaning, such as tense, mood, or voice.

What are linking verbs?

Linking verbs connect the subject of a sentence with a subject complement, often describing or renaming the subject. Common linking verbs include 'is', 'are', 'was', 'were', 'seem', and 'become'.

Why are helping and linking verbs important in writing?

Helping and linking verbs provide clarity and depth to sentences, helping to convey the correct tense, mood, or state of being, which enhances overall readability and comprehension.

How can worksheets help students understand helping and linking verbs?

Worksheets can provide structured practice with identifying and using helping and linking verbs, allowing students to reinforce their understanding through exercises, examples, and assessments.

What types of activities are commonly found in helping verb worksheets?

Common activities include fill-in-the-blank exercises, sentence rewriting, multiple-choice questions, and matching verbs to their appropriate forms or functions.

What types of activities are commonly found in linking verb worksheets?

Linking verb worksheets may include sentence completion tasks, identifying linking verbs in sentences, and exercises where students must choose the correct linking verb for a given context.

How can teachers effectively use helping and linking verb worksheets in the classroom?

Teachers can incorporate these worksheets into lessons by using them for guided practice, homework assignments, or as assessment tools to evaluate students' understanding of verb functions.

Are there any online resources for helping and linking verb worksheets?

Yes, many educational websites offer free and paid resources, including printable worksheets, interactive quizzes, and games focused on helping and linking verbs.

What grade levels benefit most from helping and linking verb worksheets?

Typically, elementary and middle school students benefit most from these worksheets as they are introduced to verb functions in grammar, but they can also be useful for ESL learners and high school students needing a refresher.

Find other PDF article:

<https://soc.up.edu.ph/65-proof/pdf?trackid=jop74-4796&title=watercolor-techniques-for-painting-water.pdf>

Helping And Linking Verb Worksheets

helps,helping,help -

helps,helping,help v. Ice helps ...

helping helping_

Mar 2, 2016 · helping ['helpɪŋ] n. ; v. (help) ...

helping helpful -

Nov 10, 2019 · Helping helping+of food She gave them all extra ...

help do sth. help to do sth. help doing sth. -

Back to Home