They quickly learn that they need to solve clues and travel to various locations to uncover the next steps in the treasure hunt. The siblings are motivated not only by the potential riches but also by a desire to learn more about their family's history.

As they embark on their quest, they face numerous challenges, including:

1. Rival Teams: The Kabras are not the only ones competing for the clues. Other branches of the Cahill family, each with their own unique skills, also join the race.
2. Physical Obstacles: The siblings must navigate through various countries and face physical challenges, from deciphering ancient texts to avoiding traps set by other competitors.
3. Moral Dilemmas: As the competition intensifies, Amy and Dan confront ethical questions about loyalty and family bonds.
