The February Revolution

- Triggered by widespread discontent with the tsarist regime.
- Factors included:
 - Economic hardship due to World War I.
 - Political repression and lack of reforms.
 - Social inequality and discontent among workers and peasants.

The February Revolution led to the abdication of Tsar Nicholas II and the establishment of a provisional government. However, this government struggled to gain legitimacy and address the demands of the people.

The October Revolution

- Key figures included Vladimir Lenin and Leon Trotsky.
- The Bolsheviks capitalized on the provisional government's failures, promising "peace, land, and bread."

The October Revolution resulted in the establishment of a socialist state, fundamentally changing the political landscape of Russia and ultimately leading to the creation of the Soviet Union.
