Common Types of Questions

While the actual questions on the Verizon assessment test can vary, there are several common types that candidates may encounter.

Cognitive Ability Questions

1. Numerical Reasoning: Questions may involve interpreting data from graphs or charts, solving mathematical problems, or working with percentages.

- Example: "If a customer has a bill of $120 and a 15% discount is applied, what will be the final amount?"

2. Verbal Reasoning: These questions test comprehension, grammar, and the ability to analyze written information.

- Example: "Choose the word that best fits the context: The manager was pleased with the team's _____ performance." (Options: mediocre, exemplary, subpar)

3. Abstract Reasoning: Questions may include patterns, sequences, or shapes that require logical thinking to solve.

- Example: "Which shape completes the sequence?"

Personality Assessment Questions

These questions often take the form of statements where candidates must indicate their level of agreement. Examples include:

- "I enjoy working in a team setting."
- "I prefer to follow established procedures rather than taking risks."

Candidates should answer honestly, keeping in mind that the goal is to find a good fit for both the candidate and the company culture.

Job-Specific Skills Questions

For technical roles, candidates may be presented with scenarios or problems related to the job. For example:

- IT Role: "A user reports that their computer is running slowly. What steps would you take to diagnose the issue?"
- Customer Service Role: "A customer is upset about a billing error. How would you handle the situation?"
